Hey _____, I hope you've had a great start to 2019! I've got a quick idea that I'd love to run past you. This March I'm (enter challenge here) for an awesome cause. I'm taking part in Tearfund's Poverty Cycle challenge, raising money for those trapped in slavery and exploitation.

I recently found out that around 4.8 million people are victims of forced commercial sexual exploitation - approximately the population of New Zealand. I'm keen to change that, and wondered if you'd like to join me in taking up the challenge? Together we would achieve much more than I could on my own. If you want to check out what it's all about, go visit povertycycle.org.nz – there's a bunch of resources and more to help us.

Anyway, I really hope you'll join me! Looking forward to hearing what you think of the idea.
